HOME AT LAST.

A little child! fair haired, with wondering eyes,
Past, through an open door, into the street.
She wandered on, lost in a land of sighs,
And wept. "Is there no rest for weary feet?"
Deep in the dark—a door stood open wide,
A light streamed from it brighter than the day;
A mother's voice kept calling: "Here! Abide!
Come Home, my little one, you've lost your way!
"Come Home!"

A wretched man, forlorn, with matted hair,
Stood in a crowd of sots, more beasts than men;
Deep curses rent the air, and dull despair
Supremely reigned in that accursed den.
But high above its revels rang one sound,
Clearer than seabird's over roaring sea—
The voice of wife and woman: "Lost, but found!
Come Home, my Husband! Come! Oh, follow me!
"Come Home!"

A poor lost soul, cast down with wretchedness:
Pale death was ringing out his fatal knell:
No one to pity; no one there to bless
The parting hour of one who loved the well.
Then suddenly a voice—"Oh, which is best?"
To live or die? Ever to sing or sigh?"
This voice, eternal whispered: "Come and rest!
Come Home, sad soul, and rest eternally!
Come Home!"
—Clement Scott in Theatre.

Size and Strength of the Gulf Stream.

Even those who navigate the waters of the Gulf stream do not fully realize the strength of its current. Two or three years ago a government vessel was anchored in the stream observing the current. The wind was very light when a sailing vessel was sighted ahead, drifting to the northward. As she came nearer and nearer it became evident that there would be a collision unless steps were taken to prevent it. The crew of the sailing vessel trimmed their sails to the gentle air, but it was useless, for onward she went, carried by the irresistible force of the current directly toward the bow of the steamer.

As the vessels approached each other, by a skillful use of the rudder on board the steamer she was moved to one side, and the sailing vessel drifted past a few feet distant. The captain of the latter was as astonished as he was thankful that his vessel was not lost. All that he could cry out in broken English as he flashed by was, "I could not help it; the water bring me here."—John E. Pillsbury in Century.

Seven Thousand Miles of Wheels.

If all the locomotives in the United States were coupled together they would make a train of solid iron and steel over 300 miles long. Add the passenger cars and we would have 300 miles more of wood and iron; this would give us a gigantic passenger train 600 miles in length, counting both engines and cars. Should we want a huge "mixed" train we might add the "box," "flat" and every other kind of freight car, and our train would then have a total length of over 7,000 miles!

The passenger cars in this gigantic train would be capable of seating 1,500,000 people, and upon the freight cars could be loaded the weight of all the pyramids of Egypt and all the state capitol buildings in the United States besides. Verily, great is the railroad system of America.—St. Louis Republic.

A Georgia Negro Farmer.

There is a negro in Meriwether county, Ga., who has fifteen children living. The family, it is said, eat a bushel of potatoes daily. They run a three-horse farm and make all their provisions and thirty bales of cotton besides. They raise sugar cane and make their own sirup and sugar. They even raise rice. They economize in every way, making their own plowstocks, for instance, doing their own blacksmithing, etc. Every edge is made to cut. An evidence of the negro's good management is shown in the fact that he has lived on the place twenty years. —Philadelphia Ledger.

Sharks' Teeth as Weapons.

Sharks are among the most ancient of fishes. Long before the first reptiles appeared in the world, to be followed in their turn by the mammals, they ruled creation at a time when nearly all the earth was covered by seas. Thus great quantities of fossil sharks' teeth are found scattered over the bottom of the oceans. Such great ones as that mentioned have been largely utilized for battle axes and other purposes by savages, who are quick to take advantage of tools offered them by nature without labor. —Washington Star.

An Asiatic Alphabet.

Silas B. Beach has discovered an Asiatic alphabet which has been wholly taken from the various changes which the moon undergoes during the month. This curious moon alphabet had twenty-eight letters, every one of which resembled the moon in some of its phases.

"What has she got on?" asked the dying woman feebly.—New York Epoch.

A Voice Like a Crowd of Boys.

The laughing jackass, when warning his feathered mates that daybreak is at hand, utters a cry resembling a troop of boys shouting, whooping and laughing in a wild chorus.—Brooklyn Eagle.

The best material for hardening and tempering malleable iron and steel goods is said to be leather cinders, made by burning waste leather.

HEATING A HOUSE.

Consumption of Fuel Is Not the Only Consideration in Keeping Warm.

How best to keep a house warm is a question that every cold and biting "wave" forces upon the attention of many a housekeeper. People generally imagine that with those to whom economy in fuel is no great object the problem is simple enough and is only a question of using more or less coal. As a matter of fact, however, the consumption of fuel is not the only chief factor; the exclusion of cold and understanding how fully to utilize the heat obtained by the various fires is quite as important. The importance of the former aids to warmth in a house is well exemplified in those northern countries where necessity is the law of existence and where we read of the Greenlander's hut with an inside temperature of 90 degs., the only fire being from a piece of walrus fat, while outside it may be 40 degs. below zero.

We would find, however, but few advocates of this degree of exclusion of fresh air and ventilation, and the fewer the better, no doubt. Wholesome ventilation is of vast importance, but it should enter our houses through the channels provided for it, and not under the doors and through the window joints. People who reside in town and are protected by their neighbors on either side, with only the front and rear exposed, have but a simple problem to encounter. But to those who live in the country in frame houses, whose defenseless walls are exposed in every direction to the cutting wintry blasts, the subject is a very serious one.

In the west it is a common custom to bank earth around the house to the depth of several feet, and a single foot of manure placed in this way adds greatly to the warmth besides affording protection to the vines and plants. In old houses whose window casings and door lintels have become loose and shrunken tiny strips of felt put on with long, slender "brads" will be found very efficacious, and if cut extremely narrow are quite unnoticeable and can be put in many places where it would not be possible to insert weather strips.

In heating, furnaces are of course the chief factors. Of these there are many kinds, and we are told successively that each one is the best. People themselves, too, differ greatly as to what is the best method of heating a house, some preferring the hot air furnace, which seems, on the whole, to be more popular than any other contrivance, and others finding steam or hot water more satisfactory. There is this always to be remembered, however—no hot air furnace will carry heat satisfactorily through a pipe running any distance in a lateral direction.

For a rambling house, therefore, where there is but one furnace, hot water or steam will give a more diffused heat. The somewhat primitive but most effective base burning stove will be found a capital supplement to the hot air furnace, and if arranged with a "drum" and a register in the floor above will be nearly as efficacious as a second furnace.

Modern science has also managed to utilize the waste heat from down stairs open fireplaces in the rooms above in the most admirable fashion, making every fire heat a second room as well as the one in which it is laid; and when one considers the amount of precious warmth, not to say actual money, that goes up the chimney in smoke, it would seem that there is a great field for further improvement still in practically utilizing escaping heat.—New York Tribune.

How Sleigh Bells Are Made.

"The making of sleigh bells is quite an art," says an iron founder. "The little iron ball is too big to be put in through the holes in the bell, and yet it is inside. How did it get there? The little iron ball is called 'the jinglet.' When you shake the sleigh bell it jingles. In making the bell the jinglet is put inside a little ball of mud, just the shape of the inside of the bell. Then a mold is made, just the shape of the outside of the bell. This mud ball with the jinglet inside is placed in the mold of the outside, and the metal is poured in, which fills up the space between the ball and the mold.

"When the mold is taken off you see a sleigh bell, but it will not ring, as it is full of dirt. The hot metal that the bell is made of dries the dirt so that it can be shaken out. After the dirt is all shaken out of the holes in the bell the little iron jinglet will still be in the bell and will ring. It took a good many years to think out how to make a sleigh bell."—Lewiston Journal.

Schoolboys' English.

In a recent examination some boys were asked to define certain words and to give a sentence illustrating the meaning. Here are a few: Frantic means wild: I picked some frantic flowers. Akimbo, with a crook: I had a dog with an akimbo in his tail. Athletic, strong: vinegar was too athletic to use. Tandem, one behind another: the boys sit tandem at school.

And then some single words are funnily explained: Dust is mud with the wet squeezed out; fins are fishes' wings; monkey, a small boy with a tail; stars are the moon's eggs; circumference is distance around the middle of the outside.—London Tit Bits.

MATRIMONIAL POINTERS.

Dr. Brooks Says Redheaded Men Should Not Marry Auburn Haired Girls.

"Marriage" was the theme upon which Rev. Dr. John A. Brooks discoursed at the Prospect Avenue Christian church. His text was from Ephesians xxii, 32, 33: "Wives submit yourselves unto your own husbands as unto the Lord, for the husband is the head of the wife, even as Christ is the head of the church. Nevertheless, let every one of you in particular so love his wife even as himself and the wife see that she reverences her husband."

"Courtship is the most serious time for a man or woman," said Dr. Brooks. "Many bad unions have resulted from bad courtships. It is the time to be earnest, honest and truthful, not a time of smiling, sighing, pleasing and captivating. It is the time to study happiness, concord and congeniality.

"Marriage is either a blessing or a curse. Plutarch said, 'A man must eat a bushel of salt before I can take him for my friend.' How much more important it is when he is to be taken for life. There should be harmony in age between the parties marrying. A young person should not marry an old one. The one will seek life and its active joys, the other rest. There should be harmony in neatness and cleanliness. A clean man will not feel at home if he returns to a dirty house, nor a neat woman care to go out with a husband slovenly and uncleanly. There should be harmony also in physical temperament. Both should be strong and vigorous, and ought to have a temper as nearly equal as possible.

"A redheaded man should never marry a redheaded woman if he wants peace in the family. There should be harmony in social position. A man should never marry a woman whom he would be ashamed to take to his family and the society in which he moves. In intelligence there should also be harmony. A man does not want to marry a woman who cannot enter into his intellectual enjoyments. Above all, there should be harmony in religion. There can be no happiness in a family where a religious wife or husband has to associate with an irreligious wife or husband.

"Every young man should study the woman he is to marry with great care. He should study himself to know the traits he wants to match in his wife. Never marry a woman for personal beauty alone. Her beauty will fade after awhile and you will cease to love her. Beauty of soul is the thing to love. This will survive the failure of personal beauty and live on until death. Do not marry a fretful woman. Her fretfulness and peevishness before marriage will turn into quarrelsome and stormy invective after marriage.

"Never marry a fashionable woman. Instead of her home she will be ever thinking of fashionable society and of preparing for its enjoyment. She will burden you continually with expenses for her wardrobe, carriages and extra servants, and leave you always in your home desolated. On the other hand, select a woman who is a good housekeeper. Your home ought to be the most blessed and delightful place during life, and if she does not know how to make it such she is not fit to be your wife."—Kansas City Times.

Water in the Kalahari Desert.

The bushmen in the Kalahari desert often live scores of miles from places where water comes to the surface. During a certain part of the year sharp storms pass over the Kalahari, covering the apparently arid region with the brightest of verdure and filling, for a few short days, the water courses with roaring torrents. The bushmen know how to find water by digging in the bottoms of these dried up river beds. They dig a hole three or four feet deep and then tie a sponge to the end of a hollow reed. The sponge absorbs the moisture at the bottom of the hole, and the natives draw it into their mouths through the reed, and then empty it into calabashes for future use.

The animals that inhabit such wastes as the Kalahari are of course accustomed to living upon very small and infrequent supplies of water. The Bechuana do not lead their cattle to the drinking places oftener than once in two or three days. It is said that goats in the Kalahari frequently pass months without water, and, according to Mr. Mackenzie, there are certain antelopes which are never seen to visit the drinking places.—New York Sun.

The Buck and the Barbed Wire.

W. C. Green was coming across the country near Hereford, accompanied by others, when he came up with a large buck deer tangled up in the barbed wire of a neighboring fence. His horns were so completely tied up in the wire that it was with difficulty that they were extracted after a bullet had ended his life. He had evidently struggled for many hours to regain his liberty.—Tombstone (A. T.) Prospector.

The Changing Styles.

Ethel—Don't you know, dear, that that last year's bonnet of yours is very unfashionable this year? The fashions change so.

Maud—Yes, and it is so nice for you that they do change! The same fashions come back every three or four years, and now your bonnet is in again.—Harper's Bazar.

The Donahue Railroad Wins.

Judge Angellotti of the Superior Court of Marin county has rendered a decision in favor of the Donahue railroad and against Harmon & Co. and others. The plaintiffs were the bondsmen of Malcolm McDonald, who contracted to build the road from Tiburon to San Rafael for $246,000. After three months' work McDonald found himself unable to complete the contract and S. H. Harmon, the Gordon Hardware Company, Isaac R. Davis, Wellman Peck & Co., and others, who were on his bond, caused him to assign his contract to E. R. Hawley. This was in October, 1882. Hawley died a few months later and the bondsmen assumed the contract and finished the road. Harmon & Co. and the Gordon Hardware Company filed liens against the road in June, 1884, for the amount of their bills together with the cost of suit, interest and counsel fees, which added to the original indebtedness of $85,000. Suit was commenced early in 1885 and has been tried and retried many times ever since.

The parties and witnesses who appeared then are nearly all dead now or scattered all over the country. Peter Donahue, Isaac R. Davis, F. L. Parker, George Hook and Thos. W. Johnston, who were witnesses at the early trial, are all dead except Johnston, who has long since disappeared.

The road was represented before Judge Angellotti by J. F. Burgin and Peter J. McGlynn, executors, representing the railroad, and Chas. F. Hanlon and Bixley for the road. The plaintiff's suits were conducted by H. A. Powell and Cope, Royd and Fifield. The decision in favor of the defendants clears the title of the Donahue road from one of the most formidable cases that has been hanging against it in the courts for years.

The Origin of the Christmas Tree.

What is the origin of the Christmas tree? This question has been much debated. It has been identified with the cross of Christian tradition and with the Yule log of pagan antiquity. M. de Gubernatis has contended that it is a reminiscence of solar mythology, and other savants have elaborately developed other theories more or less fantastic. Among the most probable, however, is the suggestion of Palus Cassel that it is a Jewish emblem in disguise. Dr. Cassel points out, in the first place, that Hanucah and Christmas occur very closely together in the calendar. He then reminds us that both are feasts of lights, and that the menorah or candlestick used by on the Jews on Hanucah is frequently decored, and with representations of him so gladly ... and fruits, which good than did many ... semblance to a who were attired in the ... gown and bands.—London ... THE SUPERVISORS.

The Sonoma county Board of Supervisors met in regular monthly session at its chambers in the Court House, Chairman Mead presiding, all members present.

Monday the outside indigent list was considered and the allowances made. But few changes were made from the list of April.

The road overseer's reports and bills came up for examination and the following bills were allowed: J. F. Burgess, Santa Rosa, $571.45; H. A. Russell, Fulton, $488.85; A. J. Hembry, Russian River, $351.94; D. B. Peugh, Redwood, $184; O. Elmore, Penn's Grove, $292; J. E. Mallon, Lakeville, $401 70.

The Board convened at the usual time Monday afternoon.

The bill of J. E. Kearney, overseer of the Sonoma road, for $278.10 was allowed.

On motion of Mr. Cady the Board adjourned to visit, inspect and carefully examine the county jail in order to ascertain, if possible, the manner in which Bruggy and "Frenchy" escaped.

TUESDAY, May 3rd.

The Board of Supervisors visited the county jail Monday afternoon to carefully examine the avenues of escape made by the criminals Bruggy and "Frenchy."

The testimony of the most of the prisoners in regard to the delivery was taken. Some of them said they heard the men breaking out, but all but two swore they knew nothing about the plans before that time.

George Greening swore he saw Bruggy have two revolvers that afternoon and that the work of sawing the steel corridor cage was nearly completed at 6 o'clock in the evening. Dave Powers' testimony was about the same as that given by Greening except that he tried to lay some of the blame on Bailiff Mead by insinuation.

The bill of Roadmaster Owens of Bodega for $315.90 was allowed. Mt. Jackson school was ordered reinstated. F. P. Conners was appointed justice of the peace of Cloverdale township, vice Isadore Abrahams, resigned. W. Eastlick was appointed constable in that town, vice M. H. Weaver resigned.

In the Nick of Time.

In the nick of time to stop the course of bladder and kidney complaints is when the organs concerned exhibit a tendency to grow inactive. The healthful impulse toward activity that they receive from Hostetter's Stomach Bitters rescues them from impending danger, and averts such dangerous maladies as Bright's disease and diabetes. Sluggishness of the kidneys increases a liability to chronic rheumatism, gout and dropsy, and since the blood is filtered by these organs in its passage through them, the operation of the Bitters serves a doubly happy purpose. The medicine acts without exciting, like the fiery stimulants of commerce. Malarial, dyspeptic, constipated and nervous invalids are thoroughly relieved by it. Since the advent of that shocking malady, la grippe, it has been widely demonstrating its usefulness as a curative and preventive of it.

A MIGHTY POOR JAIL.

But it Cost the Tax Payers Over $10,000 Just the Same.

Bruggy, the Condemned Murderer, Saws His Way Out of the Concern with a Common Case Knife.

At last the much-talked-of County Jail in Santa Rosa, on which the Supervisors squandered $10,000 of the peoples' money, has been tested and instead of being made of steel it has been demonstrated without a doubt that the cells and bars are made of iron and a mighty poor quality of iron at that.

On Sunday night last Bruggy, the condemned murderer, made his escape from that institution by sawing his way out with a common case knife, the talk of help on the outside, steel saws, connivance of the jailor and other bosh to the contrary notwithstanding. The fact of the matter is this boasted $10,000 jail is not fit for the purposes for which it was built and the tax-payers have been outrageously swindled by some one.

There are various theories advanced as to just how Bruggy effected his escape. The most plausible one, however, is that he in some manner secured a couple of common steel case knives and improvised a saw out of them, which could be done by simply nicking them.

The cell in which he was confined was made of iron, which in turn was enclosed in an iron cage, which reaches the ceiling. Bruggy first sawed out of his cell and once in the corridor it was an easy matter to saw the iron bars out of one of the windows. Crawling through the aperture, dropping to the ground and scaling the fence surrounding the jail Bruggy was once more a free man.

Bruggy was accompanied in his flight by "Frenchy," who was confined in the jail for some petty offense.

The escape was not discovered until Jailor Mead entered the building at 7 o'clock Monday morning.

Sheriff Mulgrew has offered a reward of $500 for the capture of Bruggy, but so far no clew to the escape has yet been obtained, although every effort is being made to effect his capture.

George W. Bruggy, the man who so easily effected his escape from this so-called jail, committed a most atrocious murder in Windsor about two years ago. Bruggy shot and killed Paul Louison in a drunken brawl. He was arrested, tried and convicted of murder in the first degree and sentenced to be hanged. His case was twice appealed to the Supreme Court and Judge Dougherty, before whom he was tried, was sustained in his decisions by that tribunal, and Bruggy's last hope was gone.

A STUPID JURY.

A Verdict that Was Not Worth the Paper it was Written Upon.

The Chinaman, Lee Yune Chong, charged with the murder of a fellow countryman at Sebastopol in this county, has been granted a new trial by the Supreme Court. The accused was tried in Santa Rosa in June, 1889, before Judge Dougherty and a jury. The trial lasted several days and resulted in the jury bringing in the following senseless verdict: "We, the jury, do find the defendant guilty and fix the penalty as imprisonment for life." After rendering this remarkable verdict the numbskulls were discharged and are now at large, when in fact they should have been sent up for life with the Chinaman, who no doubt will now go Scot free on account of their stupidity. Subsequently the order discharging the jury was set aside. They were recalled and instructed by the court and in a few minutes rendered the verdict which they intended to render at first, which was as follows: "We, the jury, find the defendant guilty of murder in the first degree, and fix the penalty as imprisonment for life." Counsel for the defense very properly took an exception to such a proceeding and appealed to the Supreme Court with the result that the verdict has been set aside and the prisoner granted a new trial, and it is about an even thing if a plea of twice in jeopardy will not be sustained by the Supreme Court should this Chinese highbinder be again convicted.

CAPTURED.

Bruggy Surprised in the Mountains near Windsor,

And Surrenders Without Resistance ---The News Creates Great Excitement in Santa Rosa.

[SPECIAL TO THE INDEX-TRIBUNE.]

SANTA ROSA, May 6th.

Bruggy, the escaped murderer, has been captured, and is now safe and sound in the jail at Santa Rosa.

His capture was effected at one o'clock Thursday afternoon by Hy Groshong, formerly Deputy Sheriff of this county, assisted by Gil Hall. Bruggy's hiding place was discovered to be in a deep canyon on the Kise ranch, near Windsor. Groshong and Hall, while ascending the canyon, discovered smoke issuing from a camp fire built by Bruggy and "Frenchy," his companion. They were thus enabled to exactly locate the fugitives. Cautiously they ascended the canyon and silently crept within shooting distance of the men. Groshong and Hall were armed with double-barreled shot guns. Hall then crawled around to one side of their place of concealment and Groshong on the other side. Covering the culprits with their weapons they were commanded to throw up their hands and surrender. Bruggy and "Frenchy" were taken completely by surprise, and when they looked up they were confronted by the gleaming barrels of the shot-guns, which were leveled point blank at them. Bruggy's hands went up instantly. "Frenchy," however, was inclined to show fight as he made a movement as if to draw a pistol, but seeing that he had no backing from Bruggy and with the chances dead against him, he too, threw up his hands. It is said that both men were armed with pistols.

After they had surrendered, Bruggy said, "Well boys you have got me, but it is hard luck."

Groshong and Hall arrived in Santa Rosa with the prisoners at 4 o'clock the same afternoon and had no trouble in bringing them to that city.

The news of the capture ran like wild-fire over the town and created intense excitement. Hundreds of people visited the jail to see the prisoners and make sure the report of the capture was true.

A meeting of the Democrats of San Luis, Agua Caliente and Sonoma was held in this place last Saturday for the purpose of organizing a Campaign Club. After the meeting had been called to order the club was organized by the election of the following officers: Hon. Robt. Howe, President; Judge Harrison, L. Litzius, P. L. Thompson, M. F. Mullen, Stephen Akers and G. W. Hooper Vice-Presidents; Joe B. Small, Secretary; Martin Muldry, Treasurer. After the new club had been formed and officered a large number of Democrats signed the membership roll.

BRUGGY.

How Groshong and Hall Came to Capture Him.

It now transpires that the captors of Bruggy, Messrs. Groshong and Hall, made a cold sneak on the Sheriff's office. It appears that a man named Leslie discovered the whereabouts of the fugitives. He at once went to Santa Rosa and told the Sheriff about the presence of the men there first, but advised that no attempt be made to effect a capture in the daytime, the outlaws having the advantage of the ground. Hall and Groshong, learning that Bruggy had been located, determined to go out before night and effect a capture, thus getting ahead of the officers. They did this, but it is thought that had not a heavy rain forced the fugitives to leave their stronghold and take refuge under a tree the result would have been far different.

THE CITY TRUSTEES.

Everything Laid Over — Nothing Done, if We Except an Order to Obstruct Sidewalks.

The City Trustees met in regular monthly session last Wednesday evening with President Weyl in the chair and Trustees Schocken, Seipp, Litzius and Bulotti present.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved, after which the report of Trustees Seipp and Bulotti of the Street Committee was read and on motion of Trustee Litzius was laid over.

The Street Committee recommends among other things that there be no favoritism shown in giving out street work. That competition should be invited and all be given an equal chance. The committee condemns the work recently done on Second street East. It also recommends the removal of the old trees which obstruct the sidewalk in front of the Sonoma House and the awning supports which grace the center of the sidewalk in front of Dubring's store on First street East.

Trustee Seipp introduced a very good resolution in regard to building a bridge across the creek which runs through Second street east near the residences of Messrs. Dubring and Clewe. The resolution sets forth that for the last three years former Boards of Trustees have promised to build this much-needed structure, but have always went back on their promises. That that part of town has been entirely neglected by the Trustees to the great detriment of tax-payers who reside and own property in the vicinity. It also asserts that these tax-payers, who will be directly benefited by the building of the bridge, have paid more than $2,000 into the City Treasury since the incorporation of the town a few years ago. It is also asked that the bridge be built immediately. On motion of Trustee Bulotti the resolution was laid over one month.

A resolution introduced by Trustee Seipp, recommending the sum of $346 39, collected last year for sewer purposes, be transferred to the general fund, was, on motion of Trustee Litzius, laid over until the next meeting.

The Trustees of the Sonoma School District appeared before the Board and asked permission to fence in the sidewalk in front of the school yard and to erect turn-stiles at the east and west ends of said sidewalk.

This occasioned a vigorous protest from a number of tax payers who happened to be present. These urged that it would not be fair or legal to obstruct a sidewalk to the detriment of property-owners adjacent to the school lot, and that too, in face of the fact that the Board of Trustees of Sonoma are just now engaged in removing just such nuisances and obstructions as they are now asked to give their sanction to be maintained on one of the principal sidewalks of the town.

Notwithstanding these protests the School Trustees were granted the privilege asked for, much to the disgust of those property-owners on Napa street, who have been put to a heavy expense the past two years in widening out this very same sidewalk and clearing away all obstructions, such as shade and fruit trees, fences, gates and hitching posts. The vote on the proposition was: Ayes—Weyl, Litzius, Seipp Noes, Schocken and Bulotti:

AN OFFENSIVE PROVERB.

How an Innocent Little Remark Caused a Lot of Hard Feeling.

"Folks that quotes, had oughter be mighty keerful who they're hittin," said Abner Griggs, the wiseacre of Brookville Corners; "but then again," he added, "folks hadn't oughter be s'fearful tetchy, seems 's ef!" "Have you got anybody special in your mind, Uncle Abner?" asked the young man to whom the old farmer was talking. "Well, yes, I don't mind sayin t' I hev," replied Mr. Griggs. "O' course it's a statement 't bears on any number o' cases in a gen'ral way. But what ye was jest sayin 'baout takin up them keerless words o' Fred Jenkins' put me in mind o' th' Hill sisters, Susan an Rebecca; they died 'fore your day."

"What's the story? I've heard of 'em both," said the young man, as the old farmer paused for a moment, evidently lost in recollection.

"Well," said Uncle Abner, "ye see they was gettin on in years, but they didn't seem t' realize it. 'Twas common f'r folks t' speak of 'em as them two old Hill gals, but they never suspicioned it, not f'r a minute. But they was terrible tetchy, allus on th' lookaout f'r snubs an slights, an made it kind o' hard f'r folks.

"One evenin they went to a sewin bee t' Mis' Deac'n Emmonses. It appears 't someways or 'nother they thought 's much 's could be they was expected, when they wa'n't. That partic'lar bee was meant f'r th' young folks.

"Well, naow, Susan an Rebecca was a good forty years older 'n th' oldest o' th' rest on 'em. They didn't seem t' hev sense 'nough t' go away when they faound haow things stood, so they stuck right there. Mis' Deac'n Emmons, she was as perlite to 'em as she knew haow, but they seemed t' be kinder offish.

"Well, after th' bee was over, some o' th' young fellers come in—I was 'mongst th' lot—an they got to playin games. Th' Hill sisters, they staid right along, an th' young folks took 'em inter their fun; but they was kinder stiff, an didn't ketch holt o' th' games over'n above quick.

"Fin'lly one o' th' gals said, 'Le's play Shoutin Proverbs,' an little 'Mandy French, 't hed jest come home fr'm boardin school, she spoke up quick—she was kinder quick spoken allus—an says she, 'Oh, Shouting Proverbs is as old as th' hills!'

"An she never re'lized what she'd said till she see them two Hill sisters rise up as stiff 's a couple o' pokers, an make a curchy, each on 'em, t' Mis' Deac'n Emmons, an say, 'I'll bid ye good evenin!'

"'Tw'n't no use tryin t' explain," concluded Uncle Abner with a reminiscent chuckle of amusement. "They allus thought t' th' day o' their deaths 't 'twas intended fer a slap right t' their faces. 'Tw'n't no good tellin 'em 'twas a common sayin, a kind of a proverb like! When folks wanted them Hill sisters to a getherin after that, they allus hed t' make a p'int of invitin 'em special, by word o' maouth, an they never went t' 'nother sewin bee, long 's they lived!"—Youth's Companion.

A Doctor for Meissonier's Dog.

Here is a good story of a doctor and a painter's wife. The doctor's name does not appear, but the painter was Meissonier. Mme. Meissonier sent for the family physician in a great hurry. He came, thinking some illness had overtaken the artist. But it was not the artist; it was only a lapdog. He pocketed his pride and attended the patient, who soon recovered. At the end of the year the bill came in, but there was no item for attendance on the dog. Mme. Meissonier noticed the omission and told the doctor to charge. He would not charge; he said he could not charge, he was not a vet. He was very glad to be kind to the dog, etc. The lady insisted. Well, said the doctor, the hinges of my garden gate are rusty; ask M. Meissonier to bring his brush and paint them for me.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Teeth of a Shark.

In respect to its dentition the shark is a very remarkable creature. The white shark has seven rows of teeth, while other species vary in the number of rows they possess. It must be understood, however, that the shark only uses one row at a time. The other rows lie down inside the mouth behind the edge of the jaw, erecting themselves when it is time for them to take successively the place of the first row. When one observes how keen edged these incisors are it seems no wonder that they can bite off a big rope as readily as if it were packthread.—Washington Star.

Children Are Really Animals.

The children of the frivolous and neglectful have certain chances which the carefully brought up children miss. For the first five years of a child's life, says the doctor, it should be treated like a little animal, with certain instincts and propensities that must be corrected as one corrects a puppy too mischievous or too snarling.—New York Evening Sun.

A Good Thing to Know.

If you have time to do so, learn the name of your next door neighbor. It may save the grocer's boy some trouble when he comes to your house with the wrong bundle, and is also handy in case of funerals.—Chicago Tribune.

For Dry Goods, Clothing, Groceries, Hardware, Cutlery, and also everything kept in a general merchandise store go to S. Schocken's, north side Plaza.

How Unpleasant

it is to see a beautiful child's face disfigured with vile humors bursting through the skin in pimples, blotches, and sores, and sadder still, when the young and innocent are laughed at and twitted in all such cases. Parents should give them that good and pure remedy, Sulphur Bitters, which will search and drive out of the blood every particle of humor.—Health Gazette.

He has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send free of charge to all who desire it, this receipe in German, French, or English, with full directions for preparing and using. "I have been troubled with what I "call Sick Headache. A pain comes "in the back part of my head first, "and then soon a general headache "until I become sick and vomit. "At times, too, I have a fullness "after eating, a pressure after eating "at the pit of the stomach, and "sourness, when food seemed to rise "up in my throat and mouth. Lowell's Strength and Weakness.

Lowell might have been greater had he been in some respects less. He might have done more had he not known so much. He would have attained to a more powerful originality if it had not been a part of his training to be familiar with and to be pervaded by the best thoughts of many minds in many ages. His greatness in a single form of excellence would have been more unchallenged and permanent but for his many claims to admiration. We do not all agree with Mr. Browning's all complete Greek poet of the decadence, with his mastery of every thing—totus teres atque rotundus.

We think that Mr. Lowell would have been a far greater man in the eyes of posterity if, like Tennyson, he had devoted his life to the one purpose of poetry, and if instead of being all that he was he had concentrated his whole genius upon the gift of song. What he has attained to in a page or two of his verses serves to show how much more he might have done. But to complain of this would be idle and ungrateful. We are, each of us, what we can be, what our training, our temperaments and our age make us, and it is absurd to depreciate any one on the ground that he would have been still greater had he been another man. —Archdeacon Farrar in Forum.

Exercise for Elderly People.

While the elderly man has less capacity for some forms of exercise that the younger adult, he has no less need than the other of the general and local effects of exercise. It is in the earliest period of mature age that the most characteristic manifestations of defects of nutrition—obesity, gout and diabetes, in which lack of exercise plays an important part—are produced, and the treatment of them demands imperiously a stirring up of the vital combustion.

Placed between a conviction that exercise is necessary and a fear of the dangers of exercise, the mature man ought, therefore, to proceed with the strictest method in the application of this powerful modifier of nutrition. It is impossible, however, to trace method ically a single rule for all men of the same age, for all do not offer the same degree of preservation.

We might, perhaps, find a general formula for the age at which the muscles and bones have retained all their power of resistance, and at which the heart and vessels begin to lose some of their capacity to perform their functions. The mature man can safely brave all exercises that bring on muscular fatigue, but he must approach with great care those which provoke shortness of breath.—Fernand Lagrange, M. D., in Popular Science.

London's Host of Pickpockets.

"There are 100,000 pickpockets in London and each one of them knows an American the moment he sees him," said Barrett Seaton, a police sergeant attached to the famous Scotland Yard detective headquarters, when at the Palmer House. "The rendezvous of the thief trainers and their pupils are the dark thoroughfares of St. Giles and Whitechapel and along the wharves of the Thames. They are there by the thousands women and girls as well as men and boys. They are well organized, have societies and a contingent fund. When one of their number gets into our hands this sum is drawn upon to help the culprit out. Some of the best legal talent in London is sometimes called upon to defend one of the gang. It is a shame that such a condition of affairs exists, but we cannot help it."—Chicago Tribune.

Didn't Read It.

Ambitious Maiden—It's just too mean for anything. The editor sent my beautiful and pathetic story back without reading it.

Fond Mother—Dearie me! How do you know?

Ambitious Maiden—I've looked all through every page and there isn't a teardrop anywhere.—New York Weekly.

Under the direction of the forestry division of the department of agriculture experiments to produce rainfall by the explosion of dynamite are being made. The theory that rain may be produced by explosives is based largely on the fact that nearly all the great battles of this century have been followed quite shortly by rain.

Some Arizona and old Mexican tribes believe that the spirit is carried to the moon by a coal black, monkey faced owl; that upon arriving there it is met by its thousands of ancestors, who come with a long train of white donkeys; that the spirit is then escorted to a large cavern in the center of the moon, where joy reigns supreme.
